

Hello, I am a member of the public. I am a supporter of the Hacked Off campaign.

I hope that you will implement the recommendations of the Leveson report to protect people from any future abuse of the kind which led to the Leveson enquiry in the first place.

I think most journalists are hard working people who do a worthwhile and sometimes dangerous job to let the rest of us know what is happening in the world and in some cases exposing crime and immoral behaviour. They as well as the victims of hacking have been badly let down to say the least by what has happened. It is also for their benefit that I feel it is important to implement Leveson properly and completely so that the reputation of journalism at its best can be restored.
