

In spite of many numerous attempts to persuade the media to deal with communities such as the Scottish Gypsy Traveller community in a fair and consistent way there has been little or no change over decades. Reports from the EOC of the Scottish Parliament and organisations such as Amnesty have highlighted the issues very clearly but the media and in particular the press have not acted in many cases in a responsible way and have I would suggest helped to fan the flames of hatred towards these communities. I have not been able to go in to much details about these concerns and complaints about the media but would be more than happy to provide more detailed evidence is so required

Thanking you

Ken MacLennan